PRICE THREE CENTS

MANY PERSONS OWN TWO AUTOS IN THIS AREA

Ratio Of Car Owners To Population Is High In Adams County.

1,086 TRUCKS ARE OWNED LOCALLY

Almost a thousand persons in Adams county own two or more automobiles, it was revealed today by data compiled by Benjamin G. Eynon, commissioner of motor vehicles, covering the period between January 1 and July 1 of this year.

There are 8,281 passenger automobiles registered in Adams county, but there are only 7,353 automobile owners. The difference is explained by the fact that some owners have two or more automobiles.

The ratio of automobiles registered in this county to the population is less than 1 to 5, while there is one automobile owner to every five persons in the county, the population for this section being slightly in the neighborhood of 37,000 under the 1930 census.

That ratio is much higher than that of the state at large where there are more than seven persons for every automobile registered and only one car owner in every eight.

There are 1,086 trucks registered in Adams county, owned by 849 persons. A large number of the trucks are in use in county farm and orchard work.

In Pennsylvania, there are 1,338,502 automobiles registered and 1,276,846 automobile owners. Philadelphia, with 191,851 automobiles registered, has the largest number of any single district, and also the highest ratio between its population and automobile owners.

Six County Girls Enroll As Nurses

Six girls from Adams county were among the probationers admitted to the Nurses' training school in York when 82 enrolled for the largest attendance in the history of the school.

The girls from Adams county were: Miss Louise Dutra, New Oxford; Miss Grace Krumrine, Littleton; Miss Edith Lawver, Biglerville; Miss Jeanette Smallwood, Biglerville; Miss Roberta Thomas, Littleton; and Miss Mildred Winand, East Berlin.

Almost Collapses As He Hears Hit

The tenseness that accompanied the concluding inning of the World series game at St. Louis Monday almost resulted seriously for George M. Neely, Sr., Fairfield, while listening to the radio account of the game.

Dr. Ira Henderson, Fairfield, was called after the Athletics' fan showed signs of collapsing as the news of the home-run hit by Jimmy Fox in the ninth inning came over the air. Doctor Henderson declared his condition was not serious.

SUFFERS FRACTURE

ONE DEAD; 2ND ILL FROM RUM

Bad Liquor Blamed In Hanover Man's Death; Arrest Vendor.

William Small, 44, Hanover, is dead, and Charles Bunty, Midway, is seriously ill from the effects of drinking alleged poisonous liquor, while George Jones, a farmer, residing near Union Mills, is in jail at Westminster, Maryland, charged with possession of and selling the liquor which resulted in Small's death.

Small's death occurred Sunday evening at the home of his brother, Harry Small, near Silver Run. Dr. George P. Ard, Hanover, who was called, found the man dead upon his arrival and turned the case over to Dr. G. L. Wetzel.

Charles Bunty was a member of the party at the Small home and was pulled out of a straw stack by officers in a state of collapse. He is said to be in a serious condition from the effects of the liquor which he consumed and is being held in the Carroll county jail as a material witness.

Deputy Sheriff Leo Warner arrested Jones who is nearly 70 years of age on his farm. Police Justice Benson, Westminster, fixed his bail at $5,000.

Small was a son of David and Malinda Lawrence Small and was married to Miss Mary Rickode, who survives together with one daughter, Catherine Small, at home; four stepchildren, Mrs. Francis Becker, Harry Trone, both of Hanover, and Charles and Ralph Trone, at home; three brothers, Calvin Small, York; Harry Small, Carroll county; and Curvin Small, Hanover; four sisters, Mrs. Ida Willet, Hanover; Mrs. Alice Kuhn, McSherrystown; Mrs. Felix Funk and Mrs. Claude McCann, both of Hanover.

The body will be taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. Felix Funk, Hanover. Funeral services Wednesday morning with services in St. Vincent's Catholic church at 9 a. m. the Rev. Father William Huygen officiating.

BABY CLINIC

Well baby clinic for Gettysburg will be held Wednesday afternoon from 2 until 4 o'clock at the Red Cross rooms, East High street.

To the Editor of The Times:

Beverly Hills, Calif., Oct. 7—I don't know how it is in your part of the country, but, brother, I am betraying no confidence when I announce to the world publicly that out here it's hot, not warm, but just downright hot. The Chamber of Commerce can use that as an ad, or suppress it, but it's as true as everything I ever wrote about the republican party, and right on top of it I get a long telegram from Death Valley Scotty (whom I have known 25 years), asking me to come to Death Valley and he would show me all through it.

Mr. Hoover looks like he just said, "I will make all my year's speeches at once, and then go home and try and live 'em down."

Yours,

Will Rogers.

Badger Newlyweds Visit Gettysburg

Attorney and Mrs. Stanley E. Eastman, of Marinette, Wisconsin, spent Thursday in Gettysburg enroute home after an extended honeymoon through the east. Mr. and Mrs. Eastman were married in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, four weeks ago, and have been motoring through Canada and the East. Mr. Eastman is one of the most prominent members of the legal profession in northern Wisconsin and was state commander of the Wisconsin Department of the American Legion several years ago. While visiting friends here the couple were guests of the Hotel Gettysburg.

AUMEN IS ONLY MAN IN FIELD

Name Mentioned At Opening Session Of Firemen's Convention.

Allentown, Oct. 7.—Approximately 1,000 men and women delegates and members of the State Firemen's association, and its auxiliary had arrived Monday night for the annual convention which opened in the Lyric theatre here. Monday evening three big banquets, with a total attendance of 1,500, were held in the Americus, Allen and Traylor hotels.

Former Mayor Fred E. Lewis was the toastmaster at the former, and the speakers were Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell, Philadelphia, and Judge Richard W. Iobst, Allentown. The same men were also speakers at the banquet at the Allen, where Alfred Marcks, Allentown, former state president and former county president, was the toastmaster. Ex-Congressman Fred B. Gerner was the speaker at the Traylor.

The first large group of visitors to arrive was the Pittsburgh delegation with 150 members, headed by Richard Lee, chief of the Pittsburgh department.

Committee meetings marked Monday's events, together with political maneuvering for the next convention and the election of the new state president. Wilkes-Barre is trying to get the meeting for 1931 and Gettysburg is putting James B. Aumen, chief of the department there, forward for the presidency.

The parade, which will be held on Thursday, will probably be the largest parade of any kind ever held in Allentown. No less than eighty-four companies will be in line, and Allentown is making elaborate preparations for the event.

Delegation Of 70 Goes To Allentown

Seventy members of the Gettysburg fire company, a number of John Conrad and Miss Lily Dougherty and families, left today for Allentown to attend the annual convention of the Pennsylvania state firemen's association in session there this week. Some of the firemen went to Allentown on Monday. All of them are expected to return home after the parade, Thursday afternoon.

So far no opposition to the candidacy of James B. Aumen, Gettysburg's fire chief, as president of the state association, has arisen, and his name is expected to go before the convention unopposed when nominations are made on Wednesday.

Mrs. Anna Gardner Dies On Monday

Mrs. Anna Mary Gardner, 59, widow of A. G. Gardner, of Latimore township, near York Springs, died Monday morning at 10 o'clock of a complication of diseases.

She is survived by the following children: Frank and Quay Gardner, of Latimore township, and Mrs. Leroy Rinehart, near York Springs.

Six grandchildren survive as well as four brothers: John and Wilbur Rocky, both of Carlisle; Chalmers Rocky, Racine, Wisconsin; and James Rocky, Gardner's R. D. Funeral services Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Leroy Rinehart, with further services at the Mt. Victory United Brethren church, the Rev. A. C. Crone officiating. Interment in the adjoining cemetery.

Dr. H. W. A. Hanson To Give Address

Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg college, and president of the college presidents' association of Pennsylvania, will speak at the inauguration of Dr. Charles C. Ellis as president of Juniata college in Huntingdon on October 23. Doctor Hanson will speak at the program in the morning at the college chapel.

Ex-Army Musician to Direct New Moose Band

With the Citizens' band as a nucleus, the Loyal Order of Moose of Gettysburg is planning the organization of a band and has secured the services of C. J. Prewitt as leader. The first rehearsal for the Moose band will be held at the old Citizens' band hall, rear of Baltimore street, Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. Prewitt, on October 2, completed seventeen years' service in United States Army bands as clarinet and saxophone player. He is a native of Richmond, Virginia. Mr. Prewitt recently was in camp here with the 34th Infantry, of Fort Eustis, Virginia, and during his stay he was prevailed upon to come to Gettysburg after his enlistment expired. He was clarinet soloist with the 34th Infantry band.

Support New Band

Officials of the Citizens' band are pleased with the new arrangement, and have announced that they will support the new musical organization in every way possible. It is planned to organize the Moose band with about 25 pieces, using the instruments of the Citizens' band. From time to time, additional instruments will be added and the band will be costumed. It is planned to have the band practice twice a week.

Mr. Prewitt will meet with all present and past members of the Citizens' band at the band hall, Wednesday evening, to arrange rehearsal nights. Any new talent desiring to join the Moose band is urged to be present.

Mr. Prewitt, his wife and seven children have moved to 257 East Middle street. Besides directing the Moose band, Mr. Prewitt plans to give instrument instruction.

Lay Plans For Crops At State Schools

Representatives of state institutions under the jurisdiction of the state department of welfare will meet October 21 in Harrisburg to discuss the institutional vegetable programs for the farms, according to an announcement by Mrs. E. S. H. McCauley, state secretary of welfare, today.

The program is tentatively divided into three parts: production plan, use and preservation of vegetables, and prices at which credits of home produced goods would be made. Vegetable raising on the farms of the state institutions has become an important phase of the farming programs both from the standpoint of daily consumption of fresh vegetables and from the canner's angle.

Rev. S. L. Rice Is Reported Critical

Hope has practically been abandoned for the recovery of the Rev. S. L. Rice, who has been gravely ill at his home in Seven Stars. For a week, the retired Lutheran minister has been unconscious and at times his pulse is barely perceptible.

Mrs. Rice's sister, Mrs. Minnie D. Seese, of Detroit, Michigan, has arrived at the Rice home for a visit.

POSTPONE MEETING

Opening of the Presbyterian Week-day Bible school, scheduled for today, has been postponed until January 6. Miss Helen Cope, superintendent of the school, has announced. The Bible school will not be held until the new Sunday school addition to the church is completed.

German Officers Visit Gettysburg

General Von Blomberg and Col. Von Kuhlenthal Go Over Battlefield, Sunday.

Two prominent German army officers visited the Gettysburg battlefield, Sunday, coming here from Washington. They were Lieutenant General von Blomberg and Colonel von Kuhlenthal, who are making a study of American army methods.

The two foreign visitors were accompanied to Gettysburg by Dr. von Kiep and Doctor Behr, both attached to the German embassy in Washington, and Colonel W. Kreuger, of the United States army. Mrs. Kiep and her daughter, Miss Kiep, also were in the party.

The visitors were met here by Colonel E. E. Davis, superintendent of the Gettysburg national military park, who escorted them over the battlefields.

Pay $5 Bounties For Dead Goshawks

The $5 bounty paid by the game commission for the body of each goshawk will again become effective on November 1 and continue until May 1. Last year bounties were paid on seventy-six goshawks.

In reminding hunters of the bounty, officers of the commission again called attention to the characteristics of the goshawk and urged that harmless hawks be spared.

Goshawks are about two feet in length, have long tails and short wings. They are all gray in color, do not soar, but fly swiftly as close to the ground as conditions permit.

Commission officers estimate that a goshawk will take up quarters in a region where pheasants are plentiful and will kill at least one bird each day.

BREAM PRAISES STUHLBREHER AS FINEST COACH

And Villanova Mentor Says Nice Things About Bullets' Leader.

5 MEN NOW ON INJURED LIST

"Harry Stuhlbreher is one of the finest and most sportsmanlike coaches it has ever been my privilege and pleasure to meet," Henry T. Bream, headcoach of the Gettysburg college football team, said today. Bream's Bullets defeated Stuhlbreher's Villa Nova Wildcats at Villa Nova, Saturday afternoon.

"I am sorry two of his best players—Morgan and Highfield—were injured in the game," Head Coach Bream continued. "It was not a 'dirty' game, but just a hard-fought clean struggle all the way through. I hope Harry's Wildcats win every other game they play this season."

Stuhlbreher, one of the original Four Horsemen of Notre Dame fame, was loud in his praise of Head Coach Bream, Line Coach Haps Frank and the whole Gettysburg team.

"Praises Conquerors" "Gettysburg deserved to win, because they outplayed us from start to finish, and I have no alibi to offer," Stuhlbreher said Monday.

"Henry Bream, head coach, and Haps Frank, his line coach, deserve great credit for putting such an inspired, hard fighting team on the field. We feared Gettysburg and expected a test, and they gave it to us."

"In football, however, every Saturday is a new season and the defeat last Saturday is already forgotten. I expect my men to rally and for the rest of the season to fight like the wildest whose name they bear. The loss of Morgan and Highfield is a stunner."

Those members of the Bullet varsity who helped write football history at Villa Nova, Saturday, were excused from scrimmage, Monday afternoon, but the others went through a hard drill with the coaches looking ahead to next Saturday when the strong Pennsylvania Military college eleven battles the Bullets on Memorial field here.

Coach Bream said he feared "Skeets" Anglemeyer will be unable to be at his customary place in the backfield on Saturday. "Larry" Morris, whose nimble toe and eagle eye were responsible for the placement kick that gave Gettysburg its (Continued on Second Page)

Start Investigation Into Capitol Fire

Harrisburg, Oct. 7 (AP).—A closed investigation into the fire which seriously damaged the education building in the state capitol group opened today before William Morgan, chief state fire warden, and Major C. M. Wilhelm, deputy superintendent of state police.

Scores of witnesses including painters and other workmen on the new building were called before the inquiry. The hearing, held behind closed doors, was called to determine the origin of the blaze and to substantiate the belief that the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion among inflammable waste.

New Water Shortage Report Denied By Water Company

Although Marsh creek, from which Gettysburg's water supply is taken, is again falling rapidly, there is still a good-sized body of water in the Gettysburg water company's dam at the pumping station. Reports were current in Gettysburg today that a water shortage similar to that which existed here in July and August was about to re-appear, but water company officials denied the situation was serious.

Since last Friday, the level of the water in the dam at the pumping station had fallen a quarter of an inch and no water has gone over the dam since last Thursday.

Since the summer's drought, however, the water company has added a foot to its dam at the pumping station, thereby impounding several hundred thousand additional gallons of water in Marsh creek.

Water company officials said the sinking of a deep artesian well near the pumping station would be started late this week or the beginning of next week. A fourteen or sixteen-inch shaft will be sunk, and water company officials predict that this well will be a valuable adjunct

RULES AGAINST PEPPED DRINKS

Use Of Caffeine In Cereal Beverages Called Illegal.

The sale of cereal beverages or other similar types of non-alcoholic drinks which have been doctored or "pepped up" by the addition of caffeine, is prohibited by the state beverage law, according to the bureau of foods and chemistry, Pennsylvania department of agriculture.

A cereal beverage containing caffeine is considered under the law as being misbranded and adulterated.

"It is the desire of the bureau of foods and chemistry, which is charged with the enforcement of the beverage law, to inform all brewers of bottlers regarding the provision of the law so that they may prepare cereal beverages without the addition of caffeine and thus protect themselves from the responsibility of selling an unlawful product," Dr. James W. Kellogg, director of the bureau, said.

"The position of the Pennsylvania department of agriculture in this matter is that caffeine has no place as an ingredient in cereal beverages because the recognized standard for beverages of this class contains no caffeine, even a trace, as a normal constituent," Dr. Kellogg explained.

Recent examinations of samples of cereal beverages have revealed the presence of added caffeine in sufficient quantities to give such drinks a decided "kick," thereby causing serious illness to those persons who may not be in normal health, if any quantity were consumed.

"The department intends to enforce the law rigidly against the sale of beverages containing added caffeine, and will hold responsible all persons selling such a beverage. Accordingly, Pennsylvania brewers and bottlers are warned against the practice of placing on sale beverages containing allied caffeine as a stimulant."

CAR DRIVEN BY COUNTY GIRL IN FATAL ACCIDENT

Automobile Goes On Sidewalk And Pins Woman To Side Of House.

YORK SPRINGS GIRL DRIVING

A woman employe of the state treasurer's office at Harrisburg was fatally injured at 5 o'clock Monday evening when she was crushed against the side of a building at Second and Calder streets, Harrisburg, by an automobile driven by Miss Alfrata Wengert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wengert, proprietors of Mary Jane Inn, near York Springs.

The victim, Mrs. Vivian H. Roe, 44, of North Second street, was standing in front of her home when she was struck by the Adams county girl's machine. She died in the Harrisburg hospital at 9:40 o'clock Monday evening from the effects of a possible fracture of the skull, a compound fracture of the left leg and shock.

Avoided Crash

The accident occurred when the light roadster operated by Miss Wengert, traveling south on Second street, ran over the curb and onto the sidewalk when the driver tried to avoid a collision with another machine which was being driven west on Calder street by Miss Pearl I. Lower, of Duncannon.

Mrs. Roe was struck by the front of the automobile and dragged a short distance before the car came to a halt against the corner of the building, pinning her between the building and the automobile.

Scores of persons soon gathered at the scene and assisted in removing the automobile from the building. First aid was administered before the arrival of the ambulance and a physician.

Mrs. Roe was employed in the state treasury department and was returning to her home after she had finished work for the day at the capitol.

Miss Wengert was accompanied by Miss Esther Evans, of Harrisburg. Both were treated by a physician for minor injuries and later returned to their homes. Although Miss Wengert was thrown to the pavement by the impact, she was only slightly injured.

Miss Wengert attends a business college in Harrisburg, commuting daily from her home near York Springs.

40 Attend Session Of Woman's Society

More than forty women attended the October meeting of the Woman's Missionary society of the Presbyterian church held Monday afternoon at the Presbyterian home at Neville.

Mrs. D. J. Forney, president of the society, presided at the meeting and Mrs. Wayne Keet conducted the devotional period. The afternoon's program consisted of a description of the Passion Play by Mrs. Rudolph Rosenstengel who with her husband returned several weeks ago from a trip abroad, a vocal duet by Mrs. S. F. Lehman and Mrs. Edmund W. Thomas and a talk on the needs of the Home by the Rev. F. E. Taylor, of Carlisle. Another special feature of the program was a group of piano selections played by Miss Underwood, a resident of the Home who was formerly a music teacher.

A box luncheon provided by the women of the local society was served.

GETS 30 DAYS

William Smith, McKeesport, employed as dishwasher at Thompson's restaurant, Carlisle street, was sentenced to serve thirty days in jail at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Neil W. Gibson, Saturday. He was charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Smith was arrested last Thursday night by Officer John Keller.

R-101 TRAGEDY DEFIES SOLVING

Investigators Fail In Their Attempts To Learn Crash Cause.

Beauvais, France, Oct. 7 (AP)—A vast mass of twisted steel upon a storm-swept hillside failed to divulge to investigators of the British and French governments Monday how the world's largest dirigible airship, the British R-101, met disaster here in the early hours of Sunday with the loss of forty-seven lives, among them at least two titled Englishmen.

Monday night, after officials had pried and hewed their way into the enormous bulk of the stripped and broken carcass, they seemingly were no nearer to a solution of the great air catastrophe of all time than when dawn Sunday first brought them a sight of the still flaming ruin.

Nor did any of the bodies, so pitifully charred that they all looked alike, give up the secret of the sudden, tragic ending of a voyage that had been projected as an 8,000-mile trail-blazing round trip to India. Only five, all of them members of the crew, have been identified. They were W. A. Potter, assistant coxswain; E. G. Rudd, rigger, and R. Blake, W. R. King and S. E. Scott, engineers. It is considered improbable that any others will ever be identified.

A few personal effects of the passengers and crew were found Monday. These served little purpose in the baffling work of attempting identification of the victims.

London, Oct. 7 (AP)—The government today took its first step toward a public investigation into the causes of the R-101 disaster and its toll of death by ordering a coroner's inquiry to open on Friday. Beginning of the inquest will follow closely on England's official funeral memorial to the dirigible's dead at St. Paul's cathedral. The principal development in the memorial plan was the announcement that the Prince of Wales would represent King George at the service. Other members of the royal family are expected either to attend in person or be represented.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENTS

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thomas, Sachs apartments, York street, at the Warner hospital this morning. Mr. Thomas is a teacher at Gettysburg high school. Mrs. Thomas, formerly Miss Marion Bender, was a nurse at the Warner hospital. Both mother and baby are reported to be doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett O'Brien, Orttanna, announce the birth of a son at the Warner hospital this morning. Both mother and child are reported to be doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Taylor and sons, Carl and Glenn, Mrs. Walter Cline and daughter, Utha, and son, Richard, of Bendersville, spent the week-end with friends in Harrisburg.

Foxx's Homer Ends Big-Pitching Duel

Sportsmen's Park, St. Louis, Oct. 7 (AP)—Acting on the well-known theory that no strategy is more effective than a good old-fashioned wallop into the stands, burly Jimmy Foxx, the kid first baseman himself, drove out a home run in the ninth inning Monday to give the world champion Athletics a sensational 2-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals and the lead once more in the battle for baseball's biggest cash prize and honors.

Foxx's terrific drive, with one out and Mickey Cochrane on first, broke up a remarkable pitcher's duel between the veteran Burleigh Grimes, Cardinal spitball star, and the twin aces of the A's—George Earnshaw and Robert Moses Grove.

Earnshaw, after holding the Cardinals to two hits in seven innings, was relieved for a pinch hitter, and Lefty Grove, back in the box for the second straight day, received credit for the triumph, his second of the series, by checking the Red Birds in the last two innings.

8 LOSE LIVES IN PLANE CRASH

Large Plane Falls Near Dresden Killing 6 Passengers.

Berlin, Oct. 7 (AP)—Six passengers and two members of the crew lost their lives Monday when a Berlin-to-Vienna Lufthansa airplane crashed near Dresden. None of its occupants escaped death. Two women were among the victims—Frau Graefe, wife of an official of the line at Sofia, and Fraulein Blumel.

P. W. Blackwell, a British business man of Shanghai, bound for Prague, was another of the victims. Names of the others were said to be Foeldes, Knittel and Kuehnelt. Erich Pust was pilot and Max Lange, mechanic.

The machine was a single-motor plane in service a little more than two weeks. Its capacity was ten passengers and crew. Planes of this type have been used by Lufthansa for a long time, it was said, mainly as freight carriers.

ATTEND CONFERENCE

The Rev. Earl J. Bowman, pastor of St. James' Lutheran church; Mrs. John Conrad and Miss Lillie Dougherty, of Gettysburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Lady, of Arendtsville, have gone to Scranton to attend the annual convention of the Pennsylvania state Sunday School association.

ESTATE OF $13,400

The will of E. C. Keefer, former Adams county commissioner, who died suddenly ten days ago in York Springs, was entered to probate in the office of C. G. Taughinbaugh, register and recorder, by the executors, Mrs. Catharine Keefer and Lloyd Lee Keefer. The estate is valued at $13,400.

Henry Ford Assails Tariff In Speech In England

London, Oct. 7 (AP)—A broadside against tariff protection in all countries was delivered here Monday by Henry Ford.

Pausing long enough in his European trip to announce price reductions on some of his cars in Great Britain, the American automobile magnate proceeded to attack "all tariffs in the United States and other countries."

Mr. Ford said "tariffs as trade protection are rarely successful."

He said British buyers of Ford automobiles during 1929 paid about $8,750,000 more than American buyers

BRAZIL REVOLT SPREADS FAST

Half Of Country Is In Arms Against The Present Government.

Montevideo, Uruguay, Oct. 7 (AP)—Leaders of the Brazilian revolt asserted in dispatches reaching here Monday that the triumph of the revolution was only a few days away. An army of 80,000 men is marching on Rio de Janeiro and nine states, in both north and south, are rebelling against the government of President Washington Luis.

The states in arms against the federal administration are Rio Grande do Sul, Santa Catharina and Parana in southern Brazil; Minas Geraes in the central section; and Piahy, Ceara, Rio Grande do Norte, Parahyba and Pernambuco in the north.

Gen. Francisco Flores da Cunha, federal deputy and leader of the revolutionary troops, said he could not make a definite statement as to the states of Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo, where the government is strongest, but intimated the situation there was grave for the administration. In addition, some reports say revolutionary outbreaks have occurred in the great northern state of Para.

Federal Judge Is Wed In New York

New York, Oct. 7 (AP)—Federal Judge Albert L. Watson, of Pennsylvania, and Mrs. Effie Woodville, of New Orleans, Louisiana, were married here Monday in a quiet ceremony at the Ritz Carlton hotel.

The Rev. Dr. Oscar L. Daley, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Islip, New York, officiated. Only members of the immediate families were present and there were no attendants. The couple left today for a motor trip through the Adirondacks and will spend several weeks in Quebec.

Judge and Mrs. Watson met on a cruise of the West Indies a year ago. They plan to repeat the holiday this winter. Judge Watson is 52, a widower and a resident of Scranton. Mrs. Watson is 40 and was formerly the wife of Warren Woodville, a New Orleans attorney. They will make their home in Scranton.

Sells Treasures To Pay Gigantic Debt

Turin, Italy, Oct. 6 (AP)—Richard Gualino, one of Italy's biggest financiers, has had to sell his rich art collection, eighteenth-century palace, racing stable and theatre to settle a debt owed the Agricultural Bank of Italy and other institutions, aggregating 500,000,000 lire (about $26,000,000).

The Bank of Italy, another creditor, liquidated him. Premier Mussolini is believed to have referred to Gualino last week in a speech in which he bitterly attacked speculators.

Uses Cap Lining To Flag Express

Amherst, S. C., Oct. 7 (AP)—Using the red lining of his cap at a warning to the approaching Canadian National Maritime express, Robert Mills, 12, averted a serious accident.

He noticed two cars moving down a siding to the main track and succeeded in gaining the attention of the train's engineer, who could not avoid a collision, but put on the brakes in time to prevent a possible tragedy.

News From Neighboring Counties

WOMAN SENT TO JAIL FOR SIX MONTHS

Chambersburg — Pleading guilty Saturday morning before Judge Davison to a serious charge and keeping a disorderly house, Mrs. Elizabeth Keyser, of Waynesboro, was sentenced to pay fines aggregating $100 and serve six months in jail.

Mrs. Keyser was arrested several days after her husband had been convicted in court at the term just closed of assault and battery on her. Keyser is now serving jail sentence for that offense. A three-year-old child, Mary, is at the children's home.

AGED MAN BURNS TO DEATH NEAR HANOVER

Hanover—John Dubbs, aged about 75 years, was burned to death Saturday morning when his dwelling along the Black Rock road leading to Hanover, about a mile and a half from the former place, was destroyed by fire. He lived alone in the two-story log house. How the fire started is unknown but as a number of articles had been removed from the structure, it is believed he was overcome by smoke while trying to save his possessions.

The body was almost completely burned, only a few charred bones including the hip bones having been recovered by the Lineboro firemen who responded to a call at about 9:30 o'clock. The remains were located under a pile of debris near the back door of the home after the fire had died down sufficiently for an investigation to be made. Coroner L. U. Zech, York, was notified.

ARRESTS BRING THEFT NEARER SOLUTION

Frederick—The mystery surrounding the robbery of the clothing store of B. Rousenour and Sons, on the night of September 23, was nearer a solution with the arrest Friday night of two York negroes, who are said by York police to have admitted transporting the stolen clothing from Frederick to York. They are being held in jail in that city.

Neither of the negroes, Palmer Hamilton, 28, and Paul A. Sides, 35, would admit the robbery, but implicated "Diamond Tooth" Claude Countee, colored, an employee of the store, as the man who hired them to haul the goods away. They said that they were paid $35 each by Countee to take himself and his wife, with the loot, in an automobile from Frederick to York. Police believe, however, that the negroes took part in burglarizing the store.

MAN FINDS WIFE DEAD UPON RETURN TO CAR

York—Seized with a heart attack while out motoring Sunday morning shortly after 9 o'clock, Mrs. Mahela A. Hoffman, wife of Samuel E. Hoffman, York, died before medical aid could be summoned.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman, accompanied by a neighbor, Miss Emma Freed, left the Hoffman residence for a short automobile ride. They proceeded south on the Dallastown Red Lion road and turned off at Neuman's sand bank, where Mr. Hoffman is employed. When they arrived at the sand bank the car was stopped and Mr. Hoffman walked away from the car to inspect the progress being made on a new operation.

When he returned to the car he found his wife dead.

ASK $18,000 IN FOUR CRASH DAMAGE SUITS

Hagerstown—Four suits for damages totalling $18,000 were filed in Hagerstown court Friday morning against Miss Mildred Perham, formerly of Waynesboro, by Max M. Smith, Anna C. Smith, Armatha Smith and Alvin Barnes.

Alvin Barnes is suing for $10,000, Anna G. Smith for $5,000, Armatha Smith for $2,000 and Max M. Smith for $1,000, all alleging personal injuries when the automobile owned and driven by the defendant, collided with the car in which the plaintiffs were riding at the corner of Mill street and East Baltimore street, Hagerstown, on August 16.

Atlanta Seeks Court Rule To Get Larger Population

Washington, Oct. 7 (AP)—Atlanta's contention that it has a population of 360,692 instead of 270,367 was laid before the District of Columbia Supreme Court Monday, where decision was withheld pending further study by the court.

Seeking a court order to compel Census Director W. M. Steuart to publish the larger figure, counsel for the Georgia city contended the Georgia Legislature had a right to increase the area of the metropolis from 34 to 184 square miles. In this area five corporate cities and fifteen communities totalling about 90,000 population are located.

Government counsel said after Congress had authorized the 1930 census, the Legislature last year granted Atlanta a new charter to include the communities in order to increase the total population. The borough of Atlanta, Assistant District Attorney John W. Finely said, had no authority over the other municipalities under the charter.

Within his knowledge, Justice Frederick L. Siddons said, no similar charter had ever been granted in this country. It was the intention of the court, he said, to ascertain the object of the legislation, behind the avowed purpose. After describing the charter as "unique" and the proceedings as most "extraordinary," Justice Siddons asked counsel for both sides for briefs to be filed within three days.

Before the proceedings got under way, Justice Siddons denied the right of the city of Houston to intervene. He ruled that whatever the outcome of the Atlanta suit, he could not see how Houston would suffer.

Underseas Tube Produces Power

Matanzas, Cuba, Oct. 7 (AP)—Professor Georges Claude, before a gathering of engineers and scientific men in his laboratory Monday, produced sufficient electrical energy through utilizing variations in temperature of Gulf Stream water to light forty 500-watt bulbs and keep them burning.

The demonstration, pronounced one of the most curious of the world of science yet has seen, was viewed by those present as the forerunner of a great revolution in industrial power methods.

The French scientist, after five years' experimentation with a theory pronounced impracticable by some leaders in the field of hydraulics, kept the bulbs burning for more than half an hour.

THE ROSE IN THE DARK

BY
Roy Vickers

SYNOPSIS: Hallie-Ellesmore, beautiful young nurse, falls in love with Saxely Grannock during a chance meeting on a cliff above Long Island Sound, although she is already engaged to Lester Brown, Grannock's younger half-brother. Grannock cannot see her clearly, as he has eye trouble and is to undergo an operation which may either restore or ruin his sight. Hence he refuses to let her tell her name, but gives her a tiny ivory rose as a love token. Hallie is hired, unknown to Grannock, as his night nurse during the treatment, and must notify Dr. Lytton when certain symptoms develop. Lester, coming in late and drunk, holds Hallie captive in the drawing room until it is past time to call the doctor and Grannock goes blind. Hallie, disgraced, breaks with Lester, though he refuses to give her up. Forbidden by Dr. Lytton to see Grannock, Hallie nevertheless meets him by accident outside the house. Hearing her voice, he recognizes her as the girl he met on the cliff, not knowing she is also the nurse who blinded him. He urges her to forget him, now that he is blind, but she insists she loves and wishes to help him. Then he asks her name.

Chapter 7
ON THE BRINK OF BETRAYAL. "My name?" echoed Hallie. "Yes, suppose I must tell you my name." In Grannock's hand, that clasped hers so closely, a pulse was beating—or was it her own? It was as if at his touch she had become one with him. . . . And now she must shatter this divine oneness. She must tell him her name and feel the beating pulse of love check and falter. . . . Would he strike her down in the sunlight? Would he turn away with half-stifled word? "I was brought up by a very dear aunt who gave me her name because my own would have been notorious. I don't even know what it is; I accepted her verdict upon it and although she tried to tell it to me I wouldn't let her. She wrote it down before she died and left it in safe keeping so that I could know it—if ever I wished to. But I think perhaps I haven't found the courage. . . . So when you ask me my name, I can't really tell you, you see."

The careful voice stopped and she knew that it was she herself who had been talking. Evading word!

"But I am going to find out my real name," she added. "If you call me by it, I shan't feel that it is not yours any more."

Grannock was laughing softly. "Does it matter what is 'real' and what isn't? Haven't we made our own reality? . . . To me, you are the ivory rose and a voice that has the sound of the sea in it—and a great many other things. All in me." He frowned and half-turned. I seem to hear people near us—

Hallie, wrenched her hand from his and faced the study window. It rained Dr. Lytton.

Never in her life had she seen such anger on a man's face as she now saw upon the doctor's.

"What is it?" Grannock asked harshly.

"It's Dr. Lytton," she said.

"Oh!" Grannock laughed again, his time almost shyly. "It's you, doc? Say, you didn't obey orders, did you? I told you to make it clear to this lady that she was to forget all about me. But you see she wasn't persuaded. She—just came."

Lytton, charging down upon his patient, failed to size up the situation.

"Grannock, old man, I don't know what to say to you. I seem to fail you right and left. That this should have happened—! Come in and rest a little. You're overtaking yourself, squandering your nervous strength. Nurse Casey!" He marked it over his shoulder. "Get Mr. Grannock indoors, please. Order him some coffee."

"Order coffee for two," put in Grannock quietly. "In the drawing-room. And perhaps you will be good enough to see that this lady and I—are not disturbed."

"What's that?" snapped Lytton. Something about his patient then caught his attention and he hesitated.

"What's that?" he repeated uncertainly. "It's most inadvisable that you should have any kind of discussion with Nurse Ellesmore, old man. You just leave her to—"

"I've no intention of seeing—"

"Interviewing Nurse Ellesmore," cut in Grannock with impatience. "As a matter of fact, I thought she'd left the house."

He turned his sightless gaze towards Hallie. "As I can't lead you into the house, will you lead me? We follow this path to the front door. And if we meet this Ellesmore woman on the way—I'd rather not be told."

"Ah!"

The gasping sigh came not from Hallie but from Nurse Casey. Hallie's hand had sprung to her mouth at that moment when Lytton

ADD CHAPTER 7 THE ROSE IN T unconsciously blundered away her secret; she had stood so while Grannock's rejoinder told her that even now he had not guessed it.

But Nurse Casey, whom no one had watched, whom no one had regarded as more than a necessary piece of surgical equipment—Nurse Casey was once again succumbing to the temptation of becoming "personal" about a patient. Fighting with her tears, she rushed at Hallie and tried to push her away from Grannock.

"What's the matter?" fretted Grannock. He put a hand p to his bandages. "Oh, my God, this blindness will take a lot of getting used to! What is happening? Rose?"

"Yes," she answered him faintly but immediately. "Yes, I'm here."

He made a movement towards her and at that Dr. Lytton came to life.

"No, I'm sorry but I really must forbid—" His voice roughened and he had to start again. "I'm in charge of your case, old man, and you must do as I tell you. You're not fit to entertain Nurse—this—to entertain anybody today."

"Wait a minute!" complained Grannock. His hand went up to his bandages again and Hallie's heart broke afresh at the pathos of the gesture. . . . Ignoring both Lytton and the little nurse she moved close to Grannock and laid her hands upon his shoulders.

"If you still want me tomorrow, I'll come," she said. It's quite true—you must rest now. But there will be tomorrow."

"You promise that?" he asked quickly. Then, before she could reply—"But I don't need to make you promise. If you say it, it will be so. 'Till tomorrow, then."

"If you still want me," she repeated. "I will come."

His laugh changed to a groan and, with the sound of it in her ears, Hallie left him. She turned the adjacent corner of the house and began to run. As she ran—out of the garden, down the drive, out into the road—she thought one thing only and that was—"In a few minutes now I shall be able to cry. In a few minutes I shall be able to cry."

But when at last she gained her solitude, no tears would come.

(Copyright, 1930, by Roy Vickers)

In tomorrow's chapter Hallie begins to convince Dr. Lytton that her deception of Grannock is for the best.

Reverse Order In Snyder Court Case

Pittsburg, Oct. 7 (AP).—The state supreme court Monday modified the order disbarring District Attorney Charles A. Snyder and reversed the rule to show cause why he should not be held guilty of contempt of court.

Instead of being disbarred, Snyder was suspended from practice in the Schuylkill county courts for one year beginning at the date of the filing of the supreme court order, saving to him the right to appear as district attorney and represent the commonwealth whenever his duties so required.

In addition to reversing the order making absolute the rule to show cause why Snyder should not be adjudged in contempt of court, the supreme court reversed the sentence imposing a fine of $2,500 on him. The costs of the later appeal were placed on the appellant. The costs in the appeal from the disbarment order were placed on Schuylkill county.

Spanish Strikers Routed By Police

Bilbao, Spain, Oct. 7 (AP).—Police fought striking Bilbao workers in the streets Sunday and defended a meeting of the union monarchia, Spanish political group, which has for its purpose defense of the monarchy.

Although there was firing, casualties were few. The mob, intent upon preventing the meeting, broke into an ammunition store and obtained weapons and ammunition. Police, after hours of fighting, emerged victorious.

Labor union leaders met Sunday night to consider whether they should continue the strike they called Friday so as to free the workers from their jobs for an attack on the monarchist meeting.

Football Team Is Unhurt In Crash

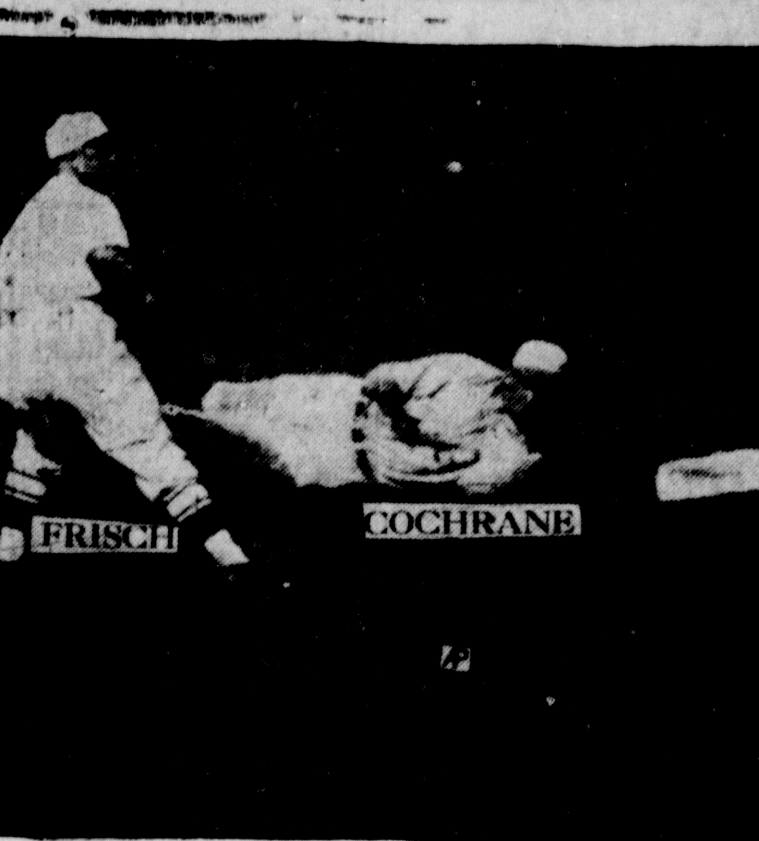

Aurora, Ill., Oct. 7 (AP).—Eight men were injured Sunday when the Empire Builder express of the Burlington railroad, carrying a number of passengers and the Vanderbilt university football squad, plowed into the rear end of a long stock train near here.

The engineer and fireman of the flyer and six drivers riding with the livestock were slightly injured, but none of the passengers on the express were hurt.

The football squad was homeward bound from Minneapolis, where Vanderbilt defeated Minnesota university.

Earth's Atmosphere Traps Sun's Heat

Washington (AP).—The earth's atmosphere is a real trap for the sun's heat, for like a mouse trap what goes in cannot get out. A Carnegie Institution report described the phenomenon. The sun's radiation enters the air in short wave lengths, and these change into longer wave lengths of heat after striking the earth. The long heat waves try to get away, but in their longer form cannot penetrate the air which they pierced easily in their incoming short form.

Nine states are represented in the first string football eleven at Washington and Lee.

"DANDERINE"

Dissolves Crust of Dandruff

Soothes Scalp; Gives New Life and Lustre to Hair!

There's no use allowing unsightly dandruff to steal the life from your hair; make it dull, brittle and scraggy; turn it gray or start it to falling out. "Danderine" will dissolve the worst crust of dandruff in a hurry. It will bring the glow of health back to your scalp. Its consistent use will encourage the hair to grow long, thick, more youthful-looking.

You will be delighted by the effects of "Danderine's" first application. Excess oil is removed from the hair; its natural color is brought out marvelously; it sparkles with new life and lustre.

Five million bottles of Danderine used a year shows its popularity! And you won't wonder at this once you learn its easy use and see how quickly it gives health to the scalp and vigor and youthful appearance to the hair!

Every drug and toilet counter in the land has Danderine—35c bottles.

Out of the Past

Happenings of Days Gone by as Chronicled in The Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times, the Files Reveal

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Local Items: All, old and young, should contribute something to the County Fair.
W. Ross White, Liberty township, recently lost six sheep killed by dogs.
Harry C. Pickling, J. Bion Scott and Charles A. Horner, Jr., all of this place, have gone to Philadelphia to attend lectures.
The County Commissioners have awarded to J. M. Pittenturf the contract for building a new covered bridge on the Harrisburg road, over Conewago creek, at $797.

Personal: Mr. J. C. Lightner, of Vincennes, Iowa, (son of ex-Sheriff Lightner of this county) called to see us last week. He is a sound Republican and says Iowa will roll up an enormous majority for Garfield and Arthur—80,000 over Hancock and 40,000 over Hancock and Weaver combined.

The Republican torch-light parade on Saturday night was a brilliant one and passed off pleasantly. The side walks were crowded with lookers-on, who seemed to enjoy the display. We commend the good conduct of the Democracy of the borough on this occasion, and shall expect our Republican friends to reciprocate it when the Democrats turn out.

Marriages: Barber—Warner, Sept. 30, by the Rev. P. F. Jarrett, Charles A. Barber, of Cumberland county, to A. F. Warner, of Adams county.

Bowers—Hartman—Sept. 19th, by the Rev. G. H. Schleck, Calvin W. Bowers, of York county, to Miss Emma J., daughter of Henry Hartman, of East Berlin.

Cashman—Chapman, Sept. 19, by the Rev. J. A. Boll, Mr. John Cashman to Miss Anna Laura Chapman, both of Franklin township.

Chapman—Cullison—Sept. 19, by the Rev. J. H. Snook, Mr. Wm. P. Chapman to Miss Harriet H. Cullison, both of Franklin township.

Rev. E. J. Metzler, Edward F. Straley, Straley—Topper, Oct. 3, by the Rev. E. J. Metzler, both of Mountjoy township.

Sheely—Wildasin, Oct. 3, in Littlestown, by the Rev. E. D. Weigle, Calvin W. Sheely to Miss Maggie C. Wildasin, both of this county.

Battlefield Survey: Several years ago a careful survey of the Gettysburg battlefield was made by a corps of Topographical Engineers under the authority of the War Department and Col. Bacheider, who has acquired considerable fame as the historian of the battle, was requested to locate and indicate the position and movements of both Union and Rebel forces on the maps issued by the government. That survey, however, did not cover the ground on which the cavalry flights and skirmishes on the right flank took place. At the last session of congress a bill was passed appropriating $50,000 toward the expense of compiling data from which the positions of troops were added to the maps already published, and for a fuller survey of the field, including the cavalry operations.

The whole work is placed under the charge of Col. Bacheider, who arrived in Gettysburg on Friday evening, accompanied by Mr. Frank O. Maxson, Civil Engineer spending six years with the Wheeler expedition in Colorado, New Mexico and California. He was also detailed by the War Department to survey the battlefield of Five Forks for use in the Warren Court of Inquiry. Mr. Maxson has already organized a corps and began work on Monday. He will survey the ground two miles wide from Granite Hill to neighborhood of Two Taverns.

Farmers and others are requested not to disturb the stakes that may be put down until the maps can be drawn, which will probably be completed this fall.

Sales: Mrs. Angeline Deardorff has sold her farm in Butler township, 106 acres, to Wm. D. Golden, at $13.10 per acre.

Dr. J. A. Swope, of this place, has bought the Clabaugh farm, 400 acres, near Taneytown, Md., for $30,000.

The property of H. D. Wattles, deceased, house and lot, on south side of Middle street, this place, was sold at public sale, last week for $910; purchaser Dr. H. L. Diehl. The large property across the street was withdrawn for insufficient bids.

Henry Butt has bought the Everhart property in Highland township, at $800.

Samuel M. Bushman has bought the farm belonging to estate of Abraham Spangler, in Cumberland township, 207 acres, at $6,000 cash.

Jacob Musselman has sold his farm, 217 acres, in Hamilton township, to Oliver F. Benner at $60 per acre.

C. B. Rice has sold his farm in Menallen township to Mrs. Samuel Pitzer, at $25 per acre.

Political Ruffianism: While the present campaign in this county has been characterized by numerous district meetings, earnest discussions of issues, torchlight parades by both parties, it has also been characterized, so far as our information goes, by an observance of the amenities and courtesies, which ought always be displayed by both sides. The Democracy of Straban township have the distinguishing honor of inaugurating the first breach. On Friday night, the Straban "Garfield and Arthur" club having procured uniforms, made their first parade in Hunterstown. During the march the procession was assailed with rotten eggs by Democratic ruffians, who seem to be enamored of the bulldozing tactics which characterize the tactics of their Southern allies. Not satisfied with this they cut the lines and traces of the carriages of Mr. John N. Boyer, one of the best known and most respected citizens of Straban township, whose only offense seem to be that he is president of the Garfield and Arthur club.

Dog Hill Paragraphs

By GEORGE BINGHAM

The Deputy Constable, in a strong talk at the Hog Ford church the other night, came out flat-footedly for law and order.

Yam Sims saw a possum in a tree on Musket Ridge one night this week. He says it looks exactly like the one he saw up the same tree last winter, and it may be the possum is trying to establish a record.

After many years of experience, Raz Barlow has concluded that courting is one of the most hazardous indoor undertakings. It is hard on the heart, and expensive; and then, after all the time and trouble spent on a girl she is liable to turn around and marry some fellow that hasn't been paying her any mind.

Just Folks

TEA AND TOAST

Just sit me down to toast and tea
And have the jam nearby,
With that no epicure could be
A happier man than I.
What if the cook has gone away
And left the pantry bare?
'Tis good to be alone, I say
And sup on simple fare.

I'll put the kettle on the fire,
You get the dishes out,
And I'll connect the toaster wire
And place the chairs about.
Let those who will seek banquet
food,
It has no lure for me,
On Sunday night I'm in the mood
For toast and jam and tea.

On Sunday night I want no fuss,
The kitchen board will do;
One teapot for the two of us
With you to pour the brew.
Of all the meals I must admit
The ones I like the most
Are those when we alone may sit
And sup on tea and toast.

Come, sit you down. We'll be as gay
As once we used to be
Before we had a cook to pay
To brew our cup of tea.
Though many a fancy meal we've known,
Still happiest I am
When you and I may sup alone
On toast and tea and jam.

SUNDOWN STORIES

By Mary Graham Bonner

"We must hurry," said the Little Black Clock, "even though we are not going forward but backward!"

"Are you turning the time back ever so far?" Peggy asked.

"Ever so far," the Little Black Clock answered.

"And we're going to see another one of the Seven Wonders of the world?" she added.

"We are," the Little Black Clock said, and no sooner had he said this than he led the children just a little distance down the magic path and the whole scene had changed.

It was dark but they could see a large bay of water.

"The bay of Alexandria," said the Little Black Clock, and now they realized they were upon a rock, and from out of the darkness appeared the light of a burning fire.

"Is something on fire?" Peggy asked.

"Oh, I see a beautiful tower," John explained.

"Of course you do!" said the Little Black Clock, "and you're also seeing another one of the Seven Wonders of the world."

They went closer to the fire and to the tower, for they had discovered that the fire was burning in the tower itself.

There stood the tower upon the rock, a beautiful white marble tower, and at the top of it was a great iron pot in which a fire was burning.

"You're seeing the very first lighthouse," the Little Black Clock told the children. "This island upon which we are standing is called Pharos and that is the name of the beautiful tower you behold."

"How did they happen to think of a lighthouse in the first place?" John asked. "The man who thought of that was a wonder himself, wasn't he?"

"I'll tell you about him," the Little Black Clock said.

Tomorrow—"The First Lighthouse."

NEW YORK Day by Day

by O.O. McIntyre

New York, Oct. 7.—Although they say time softens such a blow, any effort to comment upon the recent passing of Will C. Hogg in Baden-Baden, Germany, brings a fierce choke. One of my dearest friends, he was the most impulsively noble and steadfastly loyal gentleman I ever encountered. No person could be more widely beloved.

I loved him as few could love their favorite brother. For 12 years our lives have been almost constant companionship. About ten years older, he was my guide, my counselor, my friend. His mind, his vitality, his varied resourcefulness were magnificent. He had a lightning temper. His sweetness was childlike. He was a man!

Just three months ago, after knocking around Europe all summer together, we exchanged rowdy farewells in Berlin. "So long, you big stiff!" I called out the Bremen boat train window. He glanced about quickly, thumbing his nose slyly, turned and was swallowed up by station crowds as the train thundered away.

Then the other week came that distressing cable from his sister: "Brother had undergone an emergency operation. There were three days of waiting anguish and came from the patient himself, a typical cable: 'Don't speak of my unemployment.' And while our hopes ran high, the thunderclap news of the end."

He was superlatively civic conscious and spent largely of his vast wealth in beautifying his native Houston, but always from an obscure anonymity. Until several years ago there was not a newspaper in the Texas city in which he was deservedly known as "the first citizen" that had his picture in its filing room.

Due to my personal manner of writing it was next to impossible not to mention him in my trivialities but it always vexed him. Often in a flush of anger he would exclaim: "If you run my name in your blankety-blank column again I'm going to slap you down." And I trust he forgives this attempt at eulogy.

The son of an illustrious sire, Gov. James Hogg, he had that fixation for right so frequently characteristic of sons of great men. Outwardly gruff and at times poetically profane, inwardly there was no phase of altruism he did not possess. The rascals remain but the worthy go on. It is all inscrutable.

No person I ever knew was such a human anomaly as Will Hogg. He was at once the cosmopolitan and the backwoods Jasper. He was an art collector of distinction, his collection of Remingtons being the largest in the world, his knowledge of period furniture profound. He divided time among his Park Avenue home, old world capitals and his beautiful estate, "Bayou Banks," in Houston. Yet I have seen him hunched over a steaming bowl of chili in a sawdust joint eating with the gusto of a starving tramp. He would endure tortures of jerk-water railroads to see a county fair. He carried coons from Texas all over the world to have a daily supply of corn pone for himself and friends. Always his friends—he lived solely for them and his brothers and sister.

Two of his very closest intimates were Irvin Cobb and Ed. J. Nolan, a Los Angeles banker. There is no one outside his immediate family for whom Cobb bears such affection as he does for "Bilog"—as he signed himself. Cobb hurried home from a shooting trip in North Carolina upon hearing the news—a tragic, stricken and inarticulate humorist whose despairing grief is born of the same selfishness as Nolan's and my own. The world can never be the same place for any one of us with Will Hogg not here.

Will Hogg could not resist a hard luck story, no matter how unworthy. I saw him touched for ten sizable sums in a two-block walk in Hollywood. As a result of such constant attacks his life became one of isolation. For a year before his passing he roamed between Berlin and Paris, often stopping at second-rate hotels, "to duck the panhandlers."

He met strangers awkwardly and inherent shyness was often mistaken for rudeness. If strangers came into a room he made a precipitous and ungracious exit. His modesty is illustrated by this. Spending Xmas holidays with him in Houston one year, he mentioned he was going down to his little ranch in old Mexico. "Just a patch," he said, "with a sick cow and a sour well." I trailed along. The acreage of this "patch" was twice that of Manhattan Island, stocked with thousands of cattle and a Spanish castle that would surprise the dwellers in Beverly Hills.

None of us on earth may fathom this phenomenon harshly called Death. Yet I am utterly naive enough to believe that only the physical aspects of the Will Hogg we loved vanished. Some day I hope to hear him shout: "Hello, Splinters, how in hell did you get up here?"

Little Jack Rabbit

By David Cory

THE BAD BAT

"Did you hear that?" whispered startled Uncle Lucky, as the Nightingale stopped singing the pretty song printed at the very end of the last story. You no doubt remember what has taken place, little reader. The old gentleman bunny's diamond pin had been stolen. Yes, stolen, for forgetful Uncle Lucky had left it fastened to his purple tie in the Luckymobile.

"Twinkle, twinkle, diamond pin. Like a pretty star. Then I'm sure that Uncle Lucky Will see where you are."

again warbled the kind Nightingale from a nearby treetop, for in the gloaming she'd been roaming, and it was midnight, in Rabbittland.

Gracious me! The next instant, as if in answer to that sweet suggestion, a tiny glimmer came from the grass just below the little rabbit's window.

"Hi, hi!" shouted the little bunny, "here it is, Uncle Lucky!"

Sure enough, there lay the diamond pin in the purple tie under the moonlight-starry sky. But how it got there, neither the old gentleman rabbit nor the clever little bunny could imagine; having found it, they were content to sigh with happiness and let the credit go. But just the same, I'm going to tell you, my little reader, for I was mighty curious before the sweet voiced Nightingale explained to me what had actually happened.

A bat who lived in a near-by church steeple had seen the diamond pin. Being fond of jewelry, as some folks are, he had always envied the old gentleman rabbit. And that very night, when all was still in forest, on hill, in valley and dell, well, that old bat had flown into the garage and carried away the purple tie and the pin. But, thanks be to quick eyes, the Nightingale had spied him.

"Drop that tie, you horrid bat. Or I'll take away your hat. Stealing is a dreadful sin; Don't you take that diamond pin!"

On hearing that poetical warning, the robber bat had dropped the cravat and flown back to his steeple where the bell called the people to church every Sunday, but never on Monday.

Of course, after all this excitement, neither the little rabbit nor his old bunny Uncle could go back to sleep, so the old gentleman rabbit set the radio a going and when morning came they both fell asleep from weariness and skipped their breakfast, but woke up in time for a luncheon of carrot cakes and lollypops, lasses sticks and gummy drops.

"Let's go for a spin in the Luckymobile. I know it is willing to give us a spin."

suggested plucky Uncle Lucky, and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

Sore Throats and Coughs

Quickly Relieved by This Safe Prescription

Here's a doctor's prescription called Thoxine that is really throat insurance. Its success is due to its quick double action. With the very first swallow it soothes the sore throat and stops the coughing. It goes direct to the internal cause. The remarkable thing about Thoxine is that while it relieves almost instantly it contains nothing harmful, and is pleasant tasting and safe for the whole family. Singers and speakers find Thoxine very valuable. Put up ready for use in 35c, 60c, and $1.00 bottles. Your money back if not satisfied. Sold by People's Drug Store and all good drug stores.

There is no better ointment for sufferers of old sores, boils, piles, eczema, burns and colds. Mothers endorse it for the galling of babies. At all drug stores.

Relieves a Headache or Neuralgia in 30 minutes, checks a Cold the first day, and checks Malaria in three days.

Notice to Landowners of Adams County

The only legal way to keep hunters off your land is to publicly give notice that your land is closed to them.

The Gettysburg Times will publish its annual trespass list, warning hunters to stay off lands. Usually up to 225 landowners in the county take advantage of this Gettysburg Times' offer to give warning to hunters.

This list will be published frequently throughout the hunting season From October 15th to December 15th. The cost is only $1.00 for the entire season. If you want your land properly posted just drop us a card to that effect or call as on the telephone, giving name and location of your property.

The Times also can furnish trespass cards at the rate of six for twenty-five cents, or five cents each.

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT, CIRCULATION, ETC., REQUIRED BY THE ACT OF OCTOBER 3, 1917.

OF THE GETTYSBURG TIMES PUBLISHED DAILY except Sunday at Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, for October 1, 1930, State of Pennsylvania, County of Adams, ss.

Before me, a Notary Public in and for the State and County aforesaid, personally appeared Carl Baun, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the business manager of the Gettysburg Times and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management, etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 445, Postal Laws and regulations, to wit:

1. That the names and address of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business managers are:

Publisher, Times and News Publishing Company, Gettysburg, Pa.
Editor, Herbert L. Grimm, Gettysburg, Pa.
Managing Editor, Herbert L. Grimm, Gettysburg, Pa.
Business Managers, H. L. Grimm and Carl Baun, Gettysburg, Pa.

2. That the owners are:

Times and News Publishing Co., whose stockholders are: Herbert L. Grimm, J. McCrea Dickson, Edmund W. Thomas, John D. Keith, M. C. Jones, E. P. Miller, A. H. Reiser, Samuel G. Spangler, J. Price Ogler, Gettysburg, Pa.; William Berdine, East Orange, New Jersey.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: None.

4. That the two paragraphs next above giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company but also, in cases where the stockholders or security holders appear upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustee, hold stock and securities in a capacity than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by him.

5. That the average number of copies of each issue of this publication sold or distributed, through the mails or otherwise, to paid subscribers during the six months preceding the date shown above is 5,000.

CARL BAUM,
Business Manager.
Sworn to and subscribed before me this 7th day of October, 1930.

Woman Divorces Suspect In Reno

Reno, Nev., Oct. 7 (AP).—Arthur Courtney Burch, who faced three trials in Los Angeles in 1922 with Mrs. Madeline Obenchain, for the slaying of J. Belton Kennedy, has been divorced here by Irene Burch. The papers in the case were sealed, the trial held behind closed doors and Mrs. Burch even went into the court room through a rear entrance in her effort to maintain secrecy. It is understood the couple were married some time within the last three or four years and the secrecy in the action was an effort to conceal the ceremony from her parents.

French Learn Grapes Have A Food Value

Paris (AP).—Overproduction and under-consumption of wine is causing vineyard owners to look about for other uses for grapes. They are beginning to educate their countrymen to the use of grape jams, preserves, syrups and candied grapes. Traditionally, the Frenchman knows of but one use for his grapes—wine making. They are eaten, however, at meal time as dessert.

An Old Friend In a New Dress

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND is now prepared in convenient, palatable, chocolate coated tablets packed in small bottles. Each bottle contains 70 tablets, or 35 doses. Slip a bottle into your handbag. Carry your medicine with you.

During the three trying periods of maturity, maternity and middle age, this remedy proves its worth. 98 out of 100 report benefit after taking it.

These tablets are just as effective as the liquid.

Suspect Little Aid To Murder Solution

Glen Mills, Oct. 7 (AP).—Investigators of the killing last Friday of Mrs. Vida Robare, 35-year-old matron at the Glen Mills school, said Monday that questioning of Harry Bunia, 45, of Philadelphia, who was arrested Sunday as a suspect, had given them little if any indication of his possible connection with the crime.

Bunia was found to be carrying a loaded pistol and an ice pick. Mrs. Robare was stabbed 35 times with a weapon believed to be an ice pick; her skull was fractured and two ribs crushed by heavy blows. Authorities have asked police for the aid of Harry Bodkin, a fingerprint expert, to study fingerprints found in the room in which the woman was slain.

Rabbi Denounces N. Y. Corruption

New York, Oct. 7 (AP).—While Rabbi Stephen S. Wise and Norman Thomas, socialist leader, denounced political corruption as New York's "shame," Sunday, Tammany hall issued a statement signed by its new legal advisory committee justifying the action of John F. Curry, the hall's leader, in refusing to sign a traordinary grand jury probing evidence.

One of the best ways of starting a brisk argument among football coaches these days apparently is to bring up the subject of the shift, which has been given the "long count" by the rules-makers for this year, much to the annoyance of Messrs. Knute Rockne, Howard Jones and other advocates of this style of gridiron play.

"Rock," as spokesman for the pro-shift school, has had his say in no uncertain language. Now Jones has come to the fore, irked by the inference of criticism of Southern California's shift by Glenn S. (Pop) Warner, Stanford's head coach. Jones not only has taken Warner to task, indirectly, but taken the radio audience into his confidence, as follows:

"I am taking time to talk about the shift because one prominent Pacific Coast critic has endeavored to poison the minds of the public and football officials against the shift as employed at the University of southern California.

"I am not surprised at this attempt to lead the public off the track. Several times during the past three years, the critic has expressed his annoyance over the shift. Perhaps there is an obvious explanation that I need not mention."

After sketching his development of the shift at Iowa in 1916, explaining that its primary purpose is to provide a variety of offensive formations and not to furnish momentum, Jones went on:

"Referring again to the country's leading objector to the shift, I might say it was not the shift, but the forward pass that enabled Southern California to defeat his team in 1928 and 1929."

Warner did not mention Jones in a syndicated article on the shift, nor did Jones mention Warner over the radio, but the battle is on, nevertheless, between these two far western coaches. All of which will make it that much more interesting when the Cardinals and Trojans clash at Palo Alto October 25 in the first of the Pacific Coast's "Big Three" classics of the season.

Meanwhile Army has given the Warner system of football an early trial and impressed the critics with the results.

"It may seem heresy to say so, but the departure of Red Cagle and the shake-up in West Point's style of play may prove extremely beneficial for the Cadets," remarked one observer. "As long as the famous red-head was there, he did no harm to anyone but the opposition. Nevertheless, West Point was handicapped by being known as a 'one-man team.' Stop Cagle and you stopped Army."

"Now West Point seems to have more versatility, with a good supply of talent to capitalize it. The switch to a more deceptive type of attack is a smart move, though its success won't be fully tested until the Cadets play such teams as Harvard, Yale, Illinois and Notre Dame."

Had everything worked out at Merion according to Hoyle and the U. S. G. A., Jones would have played Johnny Goodman, George Von Elm and either George Voigt or Harrison R. Johnston in the finals. The great Georgian met none of them. He evened an old score with Jess Sweetser by swamping the New Yorker in the semi-finals, but Jones has played Voigt only in the British Amateur and he has yet to settle an account with Goodman for the upset the Nebraskan sprang at Pebble Beach.

Sectional qualifying play will solve the problem of making the United States Amateur Golf championship safer for the star competitors and assure them at least a chance in match play. It may be put into effect in time for the 1931 tournament, events having been brought home somewhat abruptly at Merion to the game's ruling powers.

The failure of "Jimmy" Johnston to qualify by the margin of a single stroke, despite a great come-back, illustrated the unfairness of the present scrambled type of tournament. Johnston had no one to blame for his poor golf at the outset but himself, yet it seemed he was entitled at least to a chance to defend his crown.

The main object of the sectional qualifying, however, will be to eliminate the necessity of the 18-hole, sudden-death matches. The field probably will be limited sufficiently to allow for all match play at 36 holes.

HELIUM TESTS ON WHITE RATS

Try To Discover Way To Prevent Bends Of Divers.

By Howard W. Blakeslee
Lafayette, Ind. (AP)—Air made mostly of helium is under test at Purdue university to learn whether it will prevent one of man's most painful diseases, the "bends" of divers.

A pair of white rats, named Damon and Pythias, are taking the preliminary tests, breathing the new atmosphere.

This air contains the normal amount of oxygen, but its nitrogen, which forms nearly 80 per cent of ordinary air, is extracted and helium substituted. Nitrogen is the apparent cause of "bends."

Gets Into Blood
It gets into the blood seemingly forced there by the compressed air on which deep sea divers and caisson men work. Then when the pressure is reduced as the men rise, this excess nitrogen is thought to form into bubbles that cause the disease. Reaching the heart, brain or spinal cord, they are fatal.

The Purdue work is undertaken by General W. Daubenspeck, a graduate, working in the biology department under Dr. Howard E. Enders and in cooperation with the Helium Company of Louisville.

The hope that helium may not be as bad as nitrogen is based upon the fact that it is less soluble than nitrogen. Helium is odorless, tasteless and colorless. It also is inert, which means that it does not combine readily with other elements, a quality which accounts for its safety from explosion when used in dirigibles.

Helium Tests
The first step at Purdue is to learn whether the helium atmosphere harms the rats. While rats are the animals nearest like humans in metabolism, the processes of producing energy.

The fact that helium, nitrogen, argon and other ordinary gases of the air may be mixed in new and artificial proportions without causing death of animals has been reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science by Dr. J. Willard Hershey of McPherson College, Kansas.

Find Chemical To Kill Peach Pests

Cornelia, Ga. (AP)—Entomologists have found an effective remedy for the peach borer—paradichlorobenzene.

The preparation, says Oliver I. Sapp of the United States department of agriculture, can be used safely on three years old or older. Three-fourths of an ounce of the chemical applied in a one-inch band around the trunk of a tree will prove effective in eliminating the most destructive of peach tree pests, he declares.

Paradichlorobenzene should be used in the fall months. Experiments with it were conducted by Charles H. Allen, entomologist at the Georgia fruit pest and parasite laboratory here.

AMUSEMENTS

At The Strand
After barely escaping many dangers with their lives in fleeing Russian revolutionists, a party of refugees came to the United States, only to face a firing squad. However, the firing squad used blank cartridges and the stone wall against which the refugees stood was a motion picture set.

This was for one of the most dramatic scenes in "Song of the Flame," First National's all-Technicolor drama, while his playing Tuesday and Wednesday to the Strand Theatre.
